COMMUNITY LOAN FUND

Celebrating 25 years of creative, collaborative, and effective solutions for underserved people and communities!

Creating affordable housing and vital community facilities—helping Maine people and communities thrive since 1992.

Mission

The Genesis Community Loan Fund provides innovative financing by soliciting investment loans from individuals, churches, corporations, and foundations, and then re-lending the money at favorable terms to nonprofit organizations to create affordable housing and community facilities throughout Maine.

The Genesis Fund helps some of Maine's most vulnerable populations: low-income working families, the elderly, homeless individuals, and people with disabilities. The Genesis Fund provides professional technical assistance to nonprofit organizations across the state by helping them with organizational development, project development, and gaining access to funding to support their work.

The Genesis Fund is proud to be a Certified Community Development Financial Institution.

From the beginning...

Beth McPherson

I had beliefs and hopes.

I believed the Genesis Fund would be entrepreneurial. I believed we would work in markets that other nonprofit developers overlooked or shied away from, markets where inexperienced borrowers would need a lot of technical assistance.

I hoped Genesis would recruit and lend capital around values of social justice. I hoped representatives of both investors and borrowers would make credit, investment and program decisions.

I hoped we would lend to nonprofits that banks might feel skittish about—but that we would always make wise, or at least defensible, choices about those who would be able to pay us back.

I am more than thrilled. In its 25 years, the Genesis Fund has amply proven those beliefs, and it has fully realized those hopes!

Beth McPherson, Genesis Fund Founding Executive Director

The Power of Community

"Al and I have always felt that the Genesis Fund was one of the most important things we have ever been a part of."

~Grace Stone, reminiscing about her and her husband Al's role as founding members.

Ours is a history of helping where it's needed most.

In the early 1990s a concern about the lack of safe, decent and affordable housing—and its debilitating effect on our communities—brought six Midcoast congregations together. The Genesis Fund was born with an initial investment of $10,000 from the First Congregational Church in Wiscasset.

Shortly thereafter the Genesis Fund provided its first loan to Crabapple Creek in Bremen, financing the construction of 13 affordable, energy-efficient homes. Now, 25 years later, the Genesis Fund has grown to over $16.7 million in assets and our annual lending averages more than $3 million.

Together, we are creating affordable housing and vital community facilities wherever the need is greatest—continuing this important work to help our most vulnerable neighbors.

Proud of our history, excited about our future!

Bill Floyd, Genesis Fund Executive Director since 2007, answers some questions frequently asked about Genesis Fund.

25 years—that’s quite an accomplishment—what’s new?

Bill: We have been growing rapidly. The need for safe, stable, and affordable housing for Mainers continues to grow—and we continue to fill the ever-growing gaps. We are proud of our Lincoln County roots, but felt we needed to be more easily accessible to all areas of the state, so we moved to Brunswick. We bought and renovated 22 Lincoln Street—we’ve been here now for two years and continue to thrive here. It’s got plenty of space for us to grow, and a great conference room that we share with our nonprofit partners—so there are always a lot of new and exciting things happening here. In true Genesis Fund fashion, we helped write a grant to help Mobius, Inc. buy our Damariscotta building so they could expand the great work they do. We’re delighted with the outcome—it’s the kind of full-circle community building we do.

So, that explains why we've seen you all over the state—
Presque Isle, Farmington, Saco, North Haven . . .

Bill, what exactly do you do?

Bill: Our technical assistance program helps organizations develop the projects their communities need. We do feasibility studies—like the one we did last year for Aroostook County to address affordable housing needs in northern Maine. We also do predevelopment work like site assessment and construction planning. And we help with the financial planning that projects need to succeed. We also help find funds for projects and write grant applications. We think of the Genesis Fund as a catalyst, using creative problem-solving to provide the quick and innovative solutions that many projects need in order to succeed.

The Genesis Fund does loans too, right?

Bill: Yes, we are kind of like a nonprofit bank, giving loans to Maine organizations to create affordable housing and community facilities. We see the housing challenges many of our most vulnerable neighbors face, and finance projects that otherwise might not happen in areas of greatest need. Because we are a mission-driven nonprofit ourselves, we often assume the risk a bank cannot. Last year, our financing created affordable housing all across the state—from Sanford to Lincolnville to Guilford. We provided financing for homeless shelters in Knox and York Counties, and for affordable housing for elders. We see a worthwhile project and ask, “What can we do to make it happen?” We’ve come a long way in 25 years—from $25,000 in annual lending to $5 million. We’re proud of what we’ve accomplished, and excited by what the future holds.

What’s next?

Bill: We’re looking at growing even more as we celebrate our 25th year. There is a lot of opportunity to help Maine elders, working families, the homeless and people with disabilities, and we want to be ready. We’ve got a lot of exciting work coming up and I look forward to working with our partners and sharing the results with everyone!

“Sometimes when I am sitting in our house, I look around and think: this is a nice place for two persons. We can sleep, cook, eat, work, be together or apart, our children and mates can visit (their sleeping upstairs not grand but they don’t mind). What if, especially as we grow older and comfort becomes more of an issue, what if we weren’t able to be housed so pleasantly? Therefore, I once again thank you for all your labors on behalf of those persons, and send this money to help carry it forward. Why do people have such different fates? I sometimes wonder about that.”

Project Profiles

Technical assistance from the Genesis Fund helps communities thrive and get people the help they need.

Working together to end Homelessness/Tedford Housing
Homelessness continues to increase in Maine. Tedford Housing provides shelter assistance and a resource center for homeless and at-risk neighbors in Midcoast Maine.

Currently, Tedford can only provide shelter assistance to 20% of those who request help. To better meet this need, they are working to consolidate their two emergency housing shelters into one resource center. There, they plan to advance programs that create the pathways to permanent and sustainable housing, personal health, family stability and self-sufficiency through shelter, education, training and employment. No-cost Technical Assistance from the Genesis Fund is helping them identify an appropriate site, negotiate the purchase, and plan site development.

Fighting Hunger/Augusta Food Bank

The Augusta Food Bank has been serving 350 people a week from its two separate facilities (a food pantry at St. Mark's Episcopal Church on Summer St. and a warehouse on Bangor St.). A new, permanent home was needed, to consolidate operations and increase efficiency and capacity.

When a donor provided them with a suitable parcel of land, they turned to the Genesis Fund for help. Technical assistance from the Genesis Fund helped plan and structure financing to build a new facility so they can better serve those facing hunger in their community. A successful campaign resulted in construction beginning this spring. The Augusta Food Bank expects to begin serving people at their new home in Fall 2017.

Biddeford

Foresight, generosity and collaboration create a vibrant, sustainable community.

Like many Maine towns, Biddeford, once a thriving textile center, fell victim to the changing economy. What was once a vibrant, active community became quiet.

For the past several years the Genesis Fund has been working to help revitalize downtown Biddeford. In 2013, the Genesis Fund helped Biddeford Housing Authority acquire and update 48 units of affordable housing in downtown Biddeford. The Genesis Fund again provided financing in 2014 to Biddeford Housing Authority to purchase and redevelop St Andre's Convent and Church into 15 units of affordable housing for seniors.

The Marble Block/Engine

Since the 1860s, The Marble Block has been the heart of downtown Biddeford. The striking Italianate building has a long retail history, with Renys being the last store to occupy this key downtown location. John Reny, the founder of Renys, was a Biddeford native and the building holds a special place in the Reny family's heart. In 2011, the Renys, advocates of strong downtowns and the arts, donated the building to Engine, a local nonprofit cultural and arts organization. Bob Reny recalled, "My father was born and raised in Biddeford. The city is part of our company's legacy, and it is important to the family that we leave a piece of our story there."

The Reny family's donation is helping revitalize Biddeford's downtown into a creative and vibrant hub. Engine is committed to designing, launching, and promoting community-based arts programming. It's dedicated to Biddeford, and believes that art, in its fullest expression, impacts individuals and transforms communities—a vision the Renys share.

A loan from the Genesis Fund is helping Engine finance predevelopment expenses related to the renovation of this historic building into an art and cultural center in downtown Biddeford. Working together, we are creating vibrant communities with bright futures!

"Renys is all-in when it comes to the communities we are a part of, and it was a wonderful opportunity for us to show this commitment in Biddeford."

~Mary Kate Reny

The Lofts at Saco Falls

Affordable housing makes communities livable and desirable. Many people saw the great opportunity this once-booming riverside town still had to offer, and were working to revitalize the community.

The Genesis Fund provided an integral part of the solution by helping to address the need for affordable housing that is walkable to downtown amenities. A loan from the Genesis Fund helped repurpose an old mill into a thriving residential complex—The Lofts at Saco Falls.

The Lofts at Saco Falls created 80 one- and two-bedroom units, taking advantage of the mill's beautiful original architectural features—including 11-foot ceilings, large windows and exposed carrying beams. Green building standards and a large landscaped courtyard add additional appeal to the location, which is helping transform downtown Biddeford into a vibrant community hub once again.

Building Community Since 1992

“Genesis Fund’s work with affordable housing helps build a stronger, more diverse community. And, when our community is strong, our children’s schools are better, businesses thrive, our quality of life is improved and we all benefit.”

Strategic Plan Fiscal Years 2018–2020

“The Genesis Fund adds value by bringing the expertise that service providers typically don’t have.”

“Consistently an outstanding organization to work with as a partner.”

“The Genesis Fund invests locally, I can see the difference my support is making.”

This is just some of the feedback we got from our stakeholders as we worked to create our 3-year strategic plan. We are proud of our 25-year history and reputation as an effective and valued partner, and have developed the following goals to continue and improve our work:

1. Increase lending to meet the most critical needs for affordable housing and community facilities.

While responding to emerging needs, we will seek out projects that address some of Maine’s most pressing needs—preserving affordable rental units and developing housing for low-income elders and homeless people.

We will grow our lending: provide $4 to $5 million in new loans each year, and increase our loan portfolio to $22 million by the end of FY20.

2. Provide strategic, high-quality and high-impact Technical Assistance (TA) for affordable housing and community facility projects.

We are making housing and community projects—that otherwise wouldn’t happen—successful.

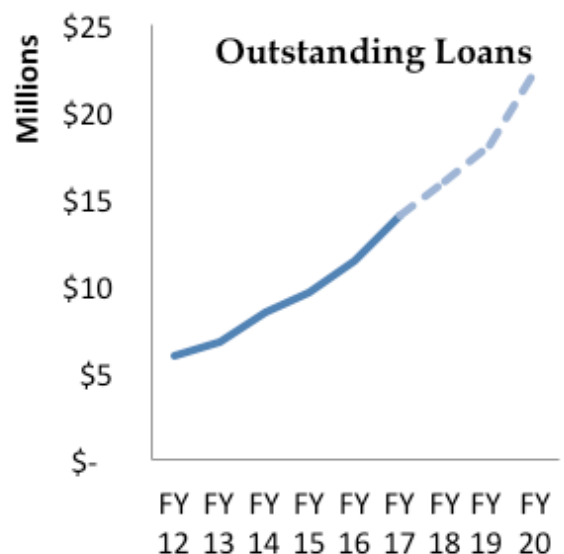

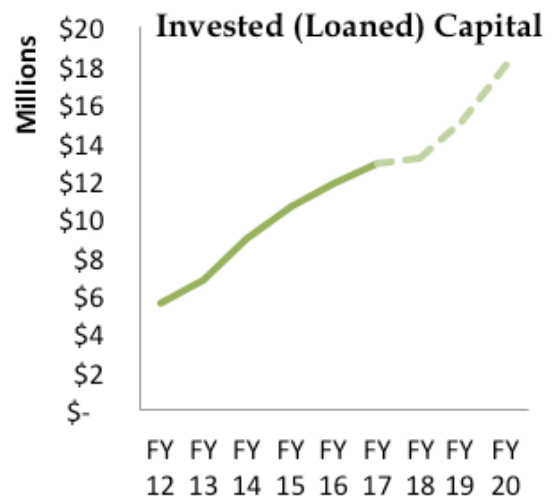

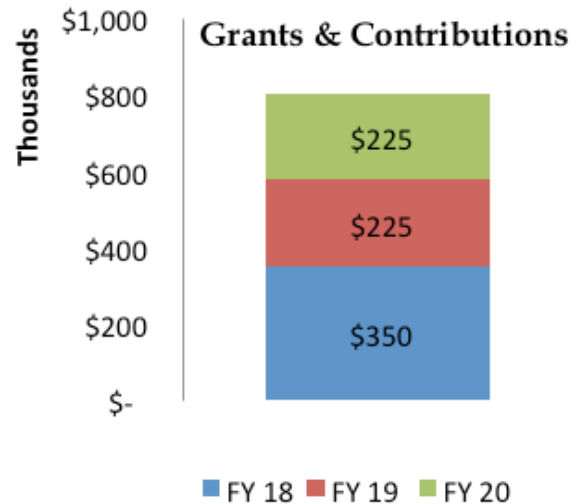

3. Increase our pool of contributed and loaned capital in order to meet our goals for increased impact.

We will raise $800,000 to provide a stable foundation for growth and enable us to maximize matching grant opportunities from the US Treasury’s CDFI Fund program.

We will also continue to increase our pool of invested capital over the 3-year period, to $18 million by the end of FY20.

4. Support our continued growth and visibility in our industry.

We will continue to serve as a statewide leader, resource, and mentor for developing new leaders in affordable housing and community development in Maine and beyond.
